Plans Discarded As Royal Couple Visit Albernis

Unscheduled Whirlwind Trip Gives 20,000 a Look at Pair

By T. A. MYERS
Colonist Staff Reporter

PORT ALBERNI, Oct. 25—The Royal couple today postponed a scheduled horseback ride to give Alberni valley residents the thrill of their lives.

Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip made an unscheduled whirlwind trip 40 miles from Eagle Crest, their Qualicum Beach holiday lodge, to the West Coast's twin cities—Alberni and Port Alberni—and then on to Sproat River.

The couple were in the Alberni Valley a little over an hour. They were greeted by an estimated 20,000 valley residents who turned out on an hour's notice.

Prince Philip drove all the way himself, at breakneck speeds up to 70 miles an hour, on the better stretches of road. The Royal couple had planned to go riding in the spacious grounds at Eagle Crest this afternoon. Three horses had been provided for them. The horses were taken to Eagle Crest at 2 p.m. At 8 p.m. they were still waiting.

BUSIEST DAY

The Alberni trip filled out the busiest day of the couple's three day Island holiday. During the morning the Prince and Princess saw an exhibition of tree-topping at nearby Northwest Bay. They also saw huge logs snaked out of the forest and dumped into the bay. They then returned to Eagle Crest for a late lunch.

At 3.20 p.m. the Royal party swung up the driveway from Eagle Crest. Prince Philip stopped at the gate, apparently to ask directions of a sentry. Another guard stood in the centre of the road, blocking traffic approaching from the north. Princess Elizabeth frowned at the guard, and jerked her thumb northwards. The guard leaped aside as Philip's supercharged Oldsmobile convertible swung north onto the highway.

On the drive to Alberni, the couple saw some of Vancouver Island's choicest scenery: snow-capped Mount Arrowsmith, looking like blue Jell-O topped with thin cream; Cameron Lake, with splashes of autumn color in the dark green of its forest banks; majestic Cathedral Grove, with gaudy yellow maples scattered among the towering Douglas firs.

Most of the way they were met by small groups of spectators, many of them thinly-clad women who had been standing in a cold wind for 30 to 40 minutes. When they drove past the Doukhobor colony at Hilliers there was hardly a soul in sight.

For the trip, the Princess wore a deep brown outfit, trimmed with fur, and matching hat. The Duke wore a grey flannel suit, a dark green topcoat and sunglasses.

POLICE LAG

Prince Philip led the Royal party of three cars. Behind him was the blue convertible he used for his fishing trip yesterday. Straggling in the rear, most of the way, was a police car, completely unable to match Philip's pace.

On bad stretches of road—the washboard strip from Qualicum to Hilliers and in a short section being repaired—the Prince held his speed to about 40 miles an hour. But on the broad, smooth stretches of the cross-island highway, he accelerated to at least 70 miles an hour. He made the trip in 40 minutes flat.

As the party neared Alberni the little clusters of spectators grew closer together. On the outskirts of town a school bus waited, its occupants lining the roadside to wave flags as the Princess passed. A black retriever climbed atop his kennel for a better look at royalty.

Near Alberni, private cars fell in behind the Royal party. At the city limits the procession had grown to 20 cars.

SOLID WALLS

As spectators began to form solid walls along Johnson Road, Alberni's main street, the Prince slowed the car to a crawl. He and the Princess waved and smiled at the cheering hundreds, passed the City Hall and turned off to Port Alberni. There they met the thickest—most vociferous crowds, which at times threatened to halt the procession.

Tory Victory Expected With Late Rural Ballots

Heavy Conservative Gains Should Cancel Labor Lead

LONDON, Oct. 26 (Friday) (CP)—The Conservatives scored impressive gains in Thursday's general election and, with more than half the results in, it appeared early today that Winston Churchill would regain the Prime Minister's office he held in the Second World War.

A big factor in the smashing blow dealt Prime Minister Clement Attlee's Labor Party was the Liberal vote. In many ridings the once-powerful Liberal Party did not put up a candidate and the weight of Liberal votes was enough to elect a Tory.

Although statistically Mr. Attlee's Labor forces held a slim edge over the Tories going into the second day of vote tallying, most of the remaining seats to be heard from are in rural areas where Conservative strength is believed strongest.

Altogether 323 constituencies were reported early today before weary clerks went home to bed. Of these Labor won 175, the Conservatives 154, the Liberals two and the Irish Labor Party one. The one deferred election in Yorkshire and the 301 ridings to be heard from make up the 625 total for the House of Commons.

SOLID RESERVE

In the 302 districts where winning candidates are yet to be declared, the Conservatives won 163 seats last year against 129 for Labor.

Sydney Campell, Reuters' statistical expert, said the present trend pointed to a Conservative majority of 13 seats—seven better than Mr. Attlee had after the 1950 election.

Labor failed to gain one seat from any other party. The Tories won 10 from Labor and the Liberals gained two, also from Labor.

In the February 23, 1950 election, the country went to bed with Labor leading by 61 seats—mostly from the industrial urban areas. The next day's counting—when Conservative strength came to a peak—cut Mr. Attlee's lead to six.

A Tory victory would end six years of Labor party rule and restore Mr. Churchill to the post he held during most of the Second World War. He lost to Mr. Attlee in the first post-war election in 1945.

CHEERY AIR

About the Conservative party headquarters was an air of "we're in." And shortly after 3 a.m. G.M.T. (7 p.m. P.S.T. Thursday) Gerald O'Brien, Conservative press spokesman, said the Tories should have a working majority of 30 to 35 seats in the new House of Commons.

But despite the black outlook, Labor refused to concede.

"The parties are running neck and neck," said Morgan Phillips, Labor party secretary. "The issue will be decided in the county (rural) divisions tomorrow."

Despite Labor's losses, they retained many ridings the Conservatives had counted on winning. Often Labor won by only a few hundred votes—perhaps reflecting the effect of the Liberal vote.

There was not as big a swing to the Conservatives in the popular vote as some of the public opinion polls had forecast.

Both major parties increased their total vote from Liberal party losses, mainly in areas where Liberals had no candidates.

Ballot Box Score

LONDON, Oct. 26 (Friday) (CP)—Returns from 323 of 625 constituencies in the British election showed the following party standings at 8.55 a.m. G.M.T. (10.55 p.m. E.S.T. Thursday).

Labor	175
Conservatives	145
Liberals and others	3
Deferred	1
Unreported	301
Total	625

About 82 per cent of the electorate seemed to have voted, against 84 per cent last time.

LIBERALS MAY HELP

Just before the night's final tabulations were posted, a B.B.C. commentator estimated Mr. Churchill might scrape through with a majority no greater than Mr. Attlee had in 1950. Mr. Churchill could, however, take a number of Liberals into his government if necessary to keep a firm hand on the Commons. This might give him an extra 10 or 12 backers.

There was no doubt about the air of gloom in the crowd at Labor headquarters. As each Labor loss was posted there was a groan from the crowd.

A swing of the Liberal party strength to Mr. Churchill's Tories was a decisive factor. In the last election the Liberals put up 475 candidates and elected only nine of them. This time they put up only 109 candidates. Much of the "orphan" Liberal vote went Conservative in ridings where it hurt Labor most.

Mr. Attlee himself scored a personal victory in his East London constituency of West Walthamstow and so did most of his cabinet ministers, but nearly all on reduced majorities.

Perhaps the most significant trend in the Labor vote was the success of candidates supporting rebel Aneurin Bevan, who quit the government last April protesting that the rearmament program would wreck the country's economy if continued at its planned scale.

Winch Raises Lake Question

By LAWRIE JOSLIN

In a last-ditch attempt to present the government with a cross-section of opinion among members on the question of Butle Lake, Opposition Leader Harold Winch has placed a resolution on the order paper of the House asking for committee discussion of the issue.

See stories on Page 13 for debate on provincial pensions issue.

The resolution will reach the floor of the House when the legislature begins sitting again at 2.30 p.m. today.

Rupert Haggen (C.C.F., Grand Forks-Greenwood) has submitted a resolution urging the health and welfare minister to file with the legislature all recommendations which may have been made by the hospital insurance inquiry board.

PUBLIC SHOULD KNOW

The resolution states it is in the public interest that the citizens of B.C. know the content matter of all recommendations made, "whether or not they are agreed to by the government."

E. E. Winch (C.C.F., Burnaby) urges in a resolution that the government press the federal government for old age pensions for all persons over 65 without a means test.

A resolution placed on the order paper by Arthur Turner (C.C.F., Vancouver East) asks the House to consider a solution to the "urgent problem" of high milk prices.

Randolph Harding (C.C.F., Kaslo-Slocan) urges the House to press the federal government for introduction of effective measures to combat inflation. His resolution suggests reimposition of price controls and subsidies where necessary to protect the health and living standards of the Canadian people."

Session's End Due Saturday

It is now expected that the special session of the legislature will be prorogued Saturday morning. Most of the major business before the House has been finished. Members believe they could be ready for prorogation today, but His Honor Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallow is out of town and is not expected back until Saturday.

Election Sidelights

LONDON, Oct. 25 (CP)—Election fever kept the King up late tonight—the first time he has sat up late since his lung operation five weeks ago.

The King listened to results being announced over the B.B.C. in his own apartment.

He will be given an up-to-the-minute analysis of the election when he awakes tomorrow.

LONDON, Oct. 25 (CP)—Voters got some old and bumpy titles to the polls today.

Since motor travel is expensive:

The camel was borrowed from a Dudley zoo.

Labor provided wheelchairs at Carlshalton so invalids could vote.

Valerie White of Burnham-on-Sea, Somerset, got an official poll card showing she was listed as an eligible voter.

She went along to the voting place, but couldn't read the candidate's names and didn't know where to put her X. She didn't vote. Election officials said they were puzzled over how Valerie's name got on the roll. She is two years old.

Only member of the last Parliament at Westminster today was Col. Douglas Clifton Brown, the former Speaker of the House of Commons, who retired when Parliament dissolved. He was moving his belongings out of the Speaker's official residence to make way for his successor.

Two holders of the Victoria Cross were declared elected. Both are Conservatives.

Brig. J. G. Smyth retained the south Labor suburb of Norwood and Capt. R. E. D. Ryder of the Royal Navy was victor in the Surrey constituency of Merton and Morden.

Allied Proposal Leaves Move Up to Reds

MUNSAN, Korea, Oct. 26 (AP)—(Friday)—A concrete Allied proposal for a Korean buffer zone, involving cession of about 200 square miles of territory by each side, put the next cease-fire move squarely up to the Communists today.

The Red reaction might come at a subcommittee meeting scheduled at Panmunjom at 11 a.m. (9 p.m. Thursday, E.S.T.).

There was speculation that some sort of compromise would be affected after the Reds make a counter-proposal.

The Allied proposal was introduced at a subcommittee meeting immediately after the truce negotiations were resumed, ending a 61-day suspension.

A United Nations command spokesman said the Allied suggestion entailed a line generally following the present battlefront, but with the Reds receive up about 200 square miles territory in the west and the Allies to pull out of a similar area in the east.

Crash Victims Given Burial

NANAIMO, Oct. 25—A graveside burial service was held today for 12 victims of the plane crash on nearby Mount Benson.

All 23 persons aboard the Queen Charlotte Airlines Canso died in the crash. Bodies of 14 were identified.

More than 200 mourners attended the burial service in a corner of the Nanaimo Civic Cemetery. Rites of the Roman Catholic Church were performed by Msgr. A. G. Baker of St. Peter's Church. The Sikh ceremony was conducted by Maney Singh. Dr. L. B. Hehn of Haliburton United Church, officiated on behalf of all Protestant churches and Rev. J. H. Wright, Canadian Legion padre, called the Legion party to attention and offered prayers.

Two Drives Planned By Chest Directors

The Community Chest will hold two fund-raising campaigns in the Greater Victoria area next year, it was announced last night.

Spring and fall campaigns, a departure from the old practice of having only one in the fall, were necessitated by the failure of the recent drive to attain its objective.

Total donations to the last campaign so far stand at $160,566. Though the figure is a few hundred dollars higher than that for the same date last year, it is $75,000 short of the minimum requirements of the chest's member agencies.

Decision to hold a spring campaign was reached last night at a meeting of the board of directors of the Chest at Spencer-house. It means that the welfare agencies will likely get the money budgeted to them until the campaign is held.

CHESNUT NAMED

The meeting unanimously named M. V. Chesnut, manager of radio station CJVI, to be chairman of the spring campaign. H. B. Binny was retained as permanent campaign secretary.

Mr. Chesnut, well-known in business circles in the city, has been active in chest work for several years. He came to the city in 1942 from Hamilton, Ont., where he was manager of station CKOC.

There will only be one chairman. In the past there have been two.

No decision was made last night on the type of campaign to be held, but Mr. Chesnut and a committee will study the matter and report back to the board. Another committee will investigate the shortcomings of the last campaign with a view to giving constructive advice for the future.

Man Injured In Car Mishap

Stanley Malcolm received multiple fractures of the legs and chest injuries last night when he was run over by a car police said was driven by Walter George.

He was listed in "fair" condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital last night.

According to R.C.M.P., Mr. Malcolm was lying in the driveway to Mr. George's home at the time of the accident.

Both men live on the Songhees Indian reserve.

Wounded Man Drives for Aid

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C., Oct. 25 (CP)—A 37-year-old man is in good condition today after driving himself to hospital with a gaping wound in his chest.

William Kyle, Canadian National Telegraphs manager here, was cleaning his light gauge shotgun in his garage three days ago when it discharged into his chest.

U.N. Planes Hit Red Transport

U.S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Oct. 26 (AP)—Allied planes smashed the Korean war's record blow at Communist rail transport Thursday. Pilots estimated they destroyed or damaged 96 locomotives and 289 rail cars in a series of bombing and strafing attacks centred in the northwest.

The old mark, set Sept. 19, was 20 locomotives and 272 rail cars destroyed or damaged.

Walkouts, Blockades Harass Suez Guards

CAIRO, Oct. 25 (Reuters)—Harassed Britons in the Suez Canal zone, plagued by labor walkouts and Egyptian blockading of supplies, prepared for a worse situation today after a military spokesman said conditions are "serious" and continue to deteriorate.

The spokesman blamed "Egyptian fifth column activity in the shape of threats and bribes" for the flight of an estimated 35,000 workers from their jobs. It was understood that if the labor walkout continues manpower will be brought here from Britain and other countries.

(A War Office statement in London said the labor evacuation was being stimulated by Egyptian police threats and offers of free travel to Cairo.)

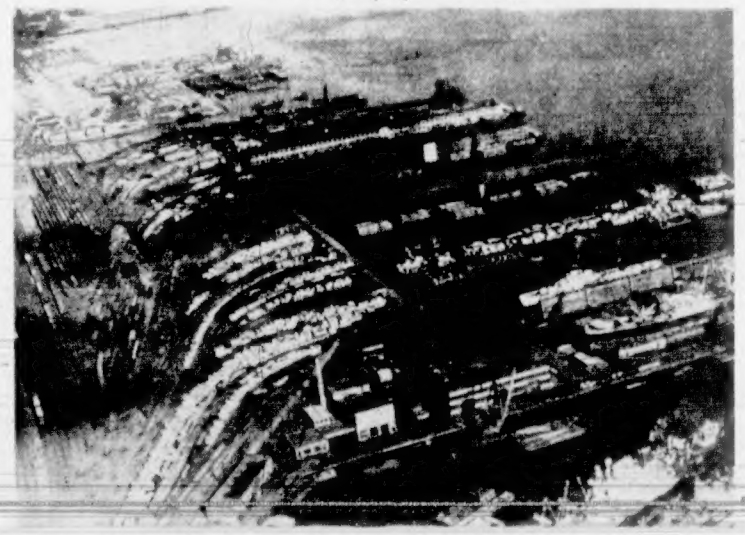
Dock work at Suez, the port at the head of the Canal Zone, was at a standstill, though work was going on at the nearby military port of Adabiyah, where troops are in charge.

Meanwhile army quartermaster officers fell back on canned and dehydrated foods today following the halting of supplies of fresh meat and vegetables by the Egyptians.

In Khartoum today Sir James Robertson, speaking for the British Governor-General, promised the Sudanese Parliament that elections leading to self-government would be held in the Sudan next year.

He said he had the full support of the British government in the fight against the Egyptian campaign to drive Britain from the Sudan and Canal Zone.

Harbor Strike Jams Freight



Freight shipments blocked by a longshoremen's strike in the port of New York, are shown piled up at a Hoboken, N.J., pier. No civilian shipments were moving, but military cargo was being handled slowly. Wildcat strikers are demanding reopening of a contract signed recently.—(AP Wirephoto.)

Ill Pensioners Need Not Pay

Premier Byron Johnson declared last night in the House that hospitals cannot force old age pensioners to sign over the major portion of their pension checks while in hospital.

The government pays the cost of acute hospitalization for pensioners.

The premier said pensioners entering nursing homes could [illegible] portion of their pension checks to help pay for their keep. The government pays the difference between actual cost of care and the portion of the pension check surrendered for 900 B.C. pensioners.

More Planes Europe-Bound

VANCOUVER, Oct. 25 (CP)—Air Marshal W. A. Curtis, Chief of the Air Staff, said tonight three R.C.A.F. operational squadrons will be in Europe by spring.

He said in an interview that 410 Squadron, now en route overseas, will be joined early in 1952 by another squadron and in April by a third.

Eleven R.C.A.F. squadrons have been approved for service with forces of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The air chief said the R.C.A.F. was satisfied with American F-86 Sabre jets.

"It was the only adequate type that was in production when we made our choice," he said. "The British are asking for them now."

Princess, Prince Thrilled As High-Rigger Tops Fir

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip today went to a logging camp and gasped together as a high-rigger topped a 125-foot fir.

The tree-topping operation gave the Royal visitors a big kick. They drove 106 miles to see it.

The "look-it" Elizabeth called to Philip from time to time as Ed Herman, 26, topped the tree, cutting off its crest and then clinging while it swayed and the top fell.

Both the Prince and Princess asked questions about the "topping" of the lofty trees.

Herman, wearing checked skirt, blue jeans and caulked boots, told them how high-riggers operate.

"How long do you take to do one?" Prince Philip asked.

"Usually an hour and a half," Herman replied.

"It didn't take you that long today," Philip said.

"It may as well up the [illegible] sir," answered the timber-topper.

Besides watching the tree-topping, which Elizabeth looked at through a pair of binoculars, the couple saw loggers fall two huge firs.

ALL ABOARD

By G. E. Mortimore

A nine-year-old boy went to hospital in Scarborough, Yorkshire, with a broken leg suffered in a game called "Conservatives versus Labor."

The boy's friend explained to reporters that the game was "something like cowboys and Indians."

The spirit of the nursery has long controlled politics but when politics returns the favor and crawls into the nursery, it is time to weep.

Cowboys and Indians was a good enough game for me and my friends when I was younger, and when if wore thin there was always "Cops and Robbers." I think I would be much happier playing cowboys and Indians than doing this. Unfortunately I have grown up, though some may deny it.

One advantage of "cowboys and Indians" was that it allowed you to separate the goodies from the baddies. In "Conservatives versus Labor," you can't tell.

"You take his gun, podner. I'll head Black Jake off at the gulch."

"Pow! Pow! Aaaagh! They got me."

That was the kind of dialogue we used to reel off by the yard. In this politically-conscious age, however, children will hold forth as follows:

"Ha, ha, I got more votes than you-ooo! You can't nationalize my tricycle now."

"Ha, ha, yourself, you Tory vermin. I'm calling for a recount. Jimmy spoiled his ballot and you bribed Ann with a stick of chewing gum. Constable! Put him in jail for election fraud."

Or perhaps the thing will be carried a stage further:

"You dirty, vicious, war-mongering bestial capitalist dog. I just blew you up with a hand grenade. Uh-uh-uh-uh! I just shot you with a machine gun."

"You filthy Communist, you missed. Ah, that's not fair. You've got a real gun. Help!"

"BLANG!"

"That's the end of you, you Wall Street lackey."

Enter the coroner.

New fad among teen-age bucks—bright shoelaces. A Colonist office boy has lately been sporting a pair of lizard-green ones on brown shoes.

They have a shimmer to them in daylight, and the young man claims they glow when you flash a light on them in the dark. Also in demand are fluorescent socks of various colors.

The hunting horn of John Peel is up for sale, says an English item. The horn hung for years in the lounge of The Lion at Guildford, Surrey. Accompanying it is a letter written by John Peel's son in 1886 certifying it as genuine.

Mrs. Charles Foster Corbett, 767 Falkland Road, claims she once blew the horn for fun between sips of a pint in The Lion.

Stuffed-shirt municipal councillors are as common as carrots, but stuffed-shirt newspaper men are somewhat rarer.

Recently one municipal sage after another hastened into print to deny that he was among those roistering in the corridor of the Harrison Hot Springs Hotel during the U.B.C.M. convention.

Now we have a parade of righteous newspaper men denying that they covered the Royal holiday. Who said they did?

Oakalla Terms Given Couple Charged Here

George and Harriet Pollard, 1289 Vista Heights, arrested in connection with the breaking and entering of the home of J. Bunton, Cadboro Bay Road, on Oct. 14, were each sentenced to six months in Oakalla Prison by Magistrate H. C. Hall in Saanich police court yesterday.

About 30 articles valued at approximately $250, which were identified as belonging to Mr. Bunton, were later recovered.

Halgeva Wicksdrom, 2812 Shakespeare, was fined $40 for dangerous driving. His license was suspended for three months.

Baird to Fly To Conference On Artillery

Major J. D. Baird, D.S.O., second-in-command of the 75th (B.C.) Heavy Anti-Aircraft Regiment, R.C.A., is on his way to Ottawa to attend the two-day conference of the Royal Canadian Artillery Association at the Chateau Laurier this week-end.

Representatives of Canadian artillery units from coast to coast will participate there in a round-table discussion of artillery matters to formulate recommendations to be laid before the minister of national defence.

High on the agenda will be consideration of methods by which recruiting may be improved and by which training, through the addition of training incentives, may be made more effective.

Other matters include equipment problems and the nature of the future policy of the Canadian artillery.

Abbott Announces Pension Taxation

Two new social-security taxes to finance universal pay-as-you-go old-age pensions of $40 a month for everyone over 70, beginning Jan. 1 next, were announced to the Commons today by Finance Minister Abbott.

He disclosed:

1. A special two-per-cent levy on taxable income to begin July 1 next, with a limit of $60 a year on the amount any one taxpayer will be asked to contribute. This is expected to yield about $95,000,000 a year.

2. Another two-per-cent levy on corporation incomes — with no limit—beginning Jan. 1 next. This is expected to yield $65,000,000 a year.

At the same time, in what he called a "2-2-2 formula" for social-security taxing, Mr. Abbott announced that one-fifth of the 10 per cent sales tax will be diverted to pensions financing, providing $145,000,000 a year.

The sum of these tax changes — estimated at about $300,000,000 annually—will go into a special social-security fund from which the $40-a-month payments will be paid to all Canadians over 70 without a means test.

This scheme goes hand-in-hand with old-age assistance of the same amount, but without means test going into effect at the same time for those aged 65 and 69 in provinces that conclude agreements with the federal government.

Taking a rare peek into the budgetary future, Mr. Abbott also announced that he plans in his budget next Spring to discard the 20-per-cent defense surtax levied on personal and corporation incomes last April and to put the tax rates at whatever then seems necessary.

An estimated 2,500,000 taxpayers — half of the country's labor force—will contribute to the pensions.

For example, the man with a taxable income of $1,000 will pay $20 over and above his normal taxes, the man with a taxable income of $2,000 will be $40 and the man with a taxable income of $3,000 will pay $60—the limit. This payment will be made by the weekly pay-check deductions along with ordinary income taxes.

Mr. Abbott estimated the universal pensions will cost $330,000,000 a year in the first full year, 1952-53. To make up the difference between this figure and the estimated revenue from the new tax set-up, the government will advance loans to the fund. However, the fund eventually will become self-supporting.

The total cost of social security, including the federal government's share of dominion-provincial assistance to those aged 65 to 69, will be $365,000,000 a year—$1,000,000 a day.

While Mr. Abbott disclosed these financial arrangements, Health Minister Martin estimated that approximately 482,000 of an estimated 700,000 persons 70 and over already have qualified for $40-a-month checks beginning next January.

Royal Couple Make Unscheduled Visit

Back in Alberni, most of the watchers stayed in their places, waiting for the Royal couple to pass by again on their way home.

At the end of Johnson Road, school children had formed up across the intersection of Beaver Creek Road expecting the party to head out of town immediately on their return from the Port. Instead, the Prince headed straight along Beaver Creek Road. The school children leaped out of the way at the last minute.

The party drove the six miles to Sproat River, where they inspected a new fish ladder being installed. Then they swung back through Alberni, 55 minutes ahead of the schedule announced by the local radio station, and caught most of the populace indoors.

The Prince made the return trip over darkened roads in even journey.

Again the unpredictable nature of the holiday doings caught everyone napping. Most Qualicum residents were waiting on their streets for the party to return by the same route it had taken earlier. Instead, the Prince returned by way of Parksville, which wasn't expecting its Royal visit until tomorrow, when the couple drive to Nanaimo for their last Vancouver Island ceremonies.

Churchill Sues for Libel After Newspaper Spread

LONDON, Oct. 25 (CP).—Winston Churchill sued The London Daily Mirror, a pro-Labor newspaper, for libel today for a general election spread saying Labor is the party "you can really trust" to defend the peace.

Conservative party headquarters announced the suit in midafternoon while millions of Britons were choosing between Mr. Churchill's Conservatives and Prime Minister Clement Attlee's Laborites at the polling booths.

The Conservative party said in a statement:

"A writ has been issued on behalf of Mr. Winston Churchill for alleged libel, contained on page one of today's issue of The Daily Mirror."

All editions of the mass-circulation popular newspaper were alike today.

All bore the headline "Whose Finger?"

Under the headline was a sketch of a gun.

The caption under this said: "Today your finger is on the trigger. See you defend peace with security and progress with fair shares. Vote for the party you can really trust. The Daily Mirror believes that party is Labor."

LEADERS' PICTURES

Nothing else appeared on the page except a picture of Mr. Attlee in the lower left-hand corner, and a picture of Mr. Churchill in the lower right-hand corner.

The Conservative party would not elaborate its brief announcement. Mr. Churchill himself could not be reached. The Daily Mirror also declined to comment.

Neither side could comment publicly before the suit is settled without risking a charge of contempt of court.

Mystery Doctor Served Ashore In Nova Scotia

HALIFAX, Oct. 25 (CP).—Naval officers recalled today that the mysterious "Dr. Joseph Cyr" served at Nova Scotia bases several months before going aboard the destroyer Cayuga.

Cyr has been suspended because of indications he might be an imposter.

He served at Cornwallis, Shearwater and Stadacona after joining the navy in Saint John, N.B. He worked three months in the sick bay at the Halifax Naval Hospital, looking after minor illnesses. He was not believed to have performed any operations.

Officers who knew him said: "He was friendly, pleasant, and considered "a bit of a character."

B.C. Man Killed In Korean Action

OTTAWA, Oct. 25 (CP).—The army today issued its 67th casualty list of the Korean war, reporting one officer and three men killed in action and seven men wounded.

This brought to 380 the number of casualties so far suffered by Canadian troops in Korean action, including 84 dead, 262 wounded, 32 injured and two missing.

One of those reported today as killed in action was Sgt. Clarence John Currie of Westbank, B.C. All others are from the east.

First Medical Group Ends Chute Training

EDMONTON, Oct. 24 (CP).—Four nursing sisters and 11 air force doctors and medical orderlies today became the first all-medical group to graduate from an R.C.A.F. para-rescue course.

In a ceremony at tactical air group headquarters here they received para-rescue badges from Air Marshal W. A. Curtis, chief of air staff.

Air Marshal Curtis told the group:

"In the coming year we expect to fly 750,000 hours . . . and we are bound to have some people in trouble."

Guest at the ceremony was W. R. (Wop) May, who is credited with fathering the idea of parachuting aid to stricken airmen.

The four nursing sisters are the first women to graduate from the rugged 14-week para-rescue training course. Each graduate completed 10 parachute jumps — six in open country and four into timber. Training also included mountaineering and icefield and bush technique.

The nursing sisters were: F/O. A. Peden, Victoria; F/O. M. L. MacDonald, Vancouver; F/O. J. I. Thomson, North Bay, Ont.; and F/O. M. F. Neily, Middleton, N.S.

Men receiving the para-rescue badge were: Sqdn.-Ldr. D. O. Coons, Hamilton, Ont.; Flt.-Lt. J. R. Wynne, Vancouver; Cpl. L. P. Foster, Toronto; Cpl. J. N. F. Deschenes and L.A.C. J. E. G. Veterans Going To See Couple

WINNIPEG, Oct. 25 (CP).—The Free Press says today in a newspage story that many of the veterans from Deer Lodge Hospital and the Academy Road convalescent home will almost certainly go to the air station at Rivers, Man., Sunday to see Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh.

"In this way, the most serious oversight during the Winnipeg tour will be partly rectified," the newspaper says.

When the Royal couple visited Winnipeg Oct. 16 no arrangement was made for a stop at Deer Lodge although the car drove through the grounds where many veterans from both institutions were mustered.

Following reports of disappointment among veterans that no stop was made, veterans' organizations protested to tour officials.

Oddities

ANDERSON, Ind., Oct. 25 (AP). — An Anderson house-seeker who said routine advertising produced no results said today she got several offers with this classified ad:

"Three drunken adults, three vicious children need rental. Rent no object. We never pay our bills."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25 (AP). — Representative Walter Norblad (Rep., Ore.) suggested today that the government quit spending money for such studies as "tolerance for environmental stress in aged and new-born sheep and goats."

There's no point to it, Norblad said, and the $19,000 allocated for the study by the Federal Security Administration could better be spent in some other manner.

BONNEAUVILLE, Pa., Oct. 25 (AP).—This community's 123 residents were upset today because a tractor-trailer upset.

Citizens offered help before they learned of the truck's contents. Then they headed the other way.

The 22,000 pounds of TNT did not explode.

Odd Profit Grows From Wedding Rice

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 25 (INS).—Few people make a profit out of the rice thrown at their own wedding, but a San Francisco business man did just that—in an unexpected way.

It led him to the discovery of a tidy sum in buried silver.

R. D. Adams, owner of the R. D. Adams Co., which rents fork lift trucks, was married a year ago in November with traditional ceremonies.

After the wedding, he discovered that considerable of the rice had lodged in his pocket. Being a sentimental newlywed, he planted it in a container at home in a little soil liberally soaked with water.

The rice flourished and outgrew the container so he took some to his place of business to plant in the damp ground surrounding the drain outside a drinking fountain.

Digging a seed bed for the rice, his shovel clinked into some metal. He investigated and found a roll of silver coins. He dug farther and found several other rolls—enough to fill a coffee can.

He declined to specify the amount they totaled, saying: "I don't want to start a silver rush on my property, or be deluged with a flood of claimants.

"But it was enough to make digging worthwhile — but certainly.

"And it certainly is interesting to speculate how it got there."

Conservatives Make Strong Comeback

WITH due allowance for early metropolitan and late provincial returns, Canadian Press reports from London at 3.35 Greenwich time this morning indicated a Conservative government would be elected in the United Kingdom polling with a safe working majority in the new House. At that hour, with 323 of the 625 seats reported and most of the metropolitan vote in, Conservative and Liberal gains from Labor, Labor losses and a strong swing in the popular vote to Mr. Churchill's supporters, told more than the initial standing in the new House. The Conservatives held 145 seats without Liberal or other help, against Labor's 175 seats, with strong Conservative ridings yet to be tallied in.

It was on this basis that the Canadian Press referred to Mr. Churchill's "political and personal triumph," and quoted even Labor spokesmen as predicting a Conservative majority of from 20 to 35 seats. It will require the completion of the returns today to establish the precise standing in the new Parliament, but British observers seem uniform in interpreting the initial result as a clear victory for Great Britain's wartime Prime Minister and the Conservative Party. Liberal support of Conservatives in three out of four ridings where they had attacked last time was held as one contributing factor in the anticipated result. Prime Minister Attlee secured his own seat, but how most of his Cabinet fared was not apparent in the first day's counting.

If the Conservative victory is confirmed in the proportions thus indicated, the result of the British elections will be felt around the world. The repercussions will be immediate in Commonwealth nations, and only less direct in all parts of the western hemisphere. Labor went into the test with split ranks and the handicap of a record in office which had proved highly contentious. That was reflected in the popular vote, but the exact division of seats in the new House will not be known until the last of the 625 ridings have reported. The return to favor of Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill after his sudden rejection in 1945 was the most dramatic event of the piece. No election in recent times has stirred more interest or will be watched to its close with greater attention.

Change in Hospital Insurance

MODIFICATIONS made by government order this week in some of the regulations under the Hospital Insurance Act appear to be practical and fair, especially those dealing with the collection of arrears of premiums. It is satisfactory to note that the idea, considered earlier, of forgiving delinquents and non-registrants their arrears in the hope of inducing them to enroll and pay up regularly in future has been abandoned. To have adopted a weak policy such as that would have been grossly unfair to all those who have been faithful in paying dues voluntarily or through payroll deductions, and would besides have encouraged delinquency.

Under the new regulation there will be no remission of arrears, but the method of collecting them will not be unduly severe. Eligibility to hospital treatment will be established by payment in a lump sum of the second half of this year's premium and the first half of next year's, plus an undertaking to clear off all arrears in instalments. At the same time there will be less stringency in dealing with persons on very low incomes who have got behind through no fault of their own, which seems reasonable and in keeping with the principle of making hospital beds available to all.

The question of accommodating patients whose ailments become chronic still remains, but it is encouraging to note Health Minister Turnbull's mention of the possibility of setting up a medical reviewing board to study and recommend on such cases individually. That should be a marked improvement on the present system, which arbitrarily rules out hospital bed space for chronic cases, even though acute conditions requiring treatment in hospital may be present.

The changes made this week are results of close study by the legislature's special committee on hospital insurance, and indicate a new willingness on the part of the government to accept advice from outside. That in itself is a very good sign.

Mission to Moscow

AMBASSADORS to Russia from the seventeenth century onwards, says The Times, London, have sometimes complained that they were cut off from contact with the Russian people. The complaint was never more justified than today. These representatives of foreign governments are often ignored, frequently restricted in their movements, and continually kept at arms' length by the very government which has accepted their credentials for the purpose of official liaison.

As well as being the height of bad manners this sort of treatment reduces a foreign embassy pretty much to a farce, isolating it from all worthwhile association with official or non-official Russian life, and reducing its value to practically nil. A foreign representative in Russia has a barren experience, and often must think that both he and his staff are simply wasting their time.

This leads the London daily to remark that in view of the great expense of maintaining ambassadors abroad it is not surprising that members of the British public have asked from time to time whether their embassy in Moscow could serve any useful purpose. The same thought must have occurred to many citizens of other countries, including Canada. Ambassadors are appointed to improve relations between nations, but apparently Russia has other and less praiseworthy views on the subject.

THANKS EXPRESSED

Sir,—To all the people who wrote letters to the papers, to those who sent letters to my home, to those who phoned offering help, to the doctor, nurses and staff of the Royal Jubilee Hospital, to the three women on the staff of the city police, and to all who tried by acts of kindness to make my trouble a little lighter to bear, I thank you all most sincerely.

MATTER OF CHOICE

Sir,—The comments of Graham Steed in his Sunday article call for comment. Great conductors such as Barbirolli and Malcolm Sargent have been known to err, as have also great composers of music. It is quite possible that either of these conductors could not write a concert overture which would be enjoyed by either musical experts or audience. The ultimate test of all good music is the audience. It is quite possible that the public might acclaim some of these compositions which were turned down by the experts.

It is in his second paragraph that Mr. Steed seems to overshoot his mark, when he says: "and in just the same way I have to discourage all sorts of people from inflicting their untutored designs in the way of church music on the Cathedral Choir," and he goes on to refer to the work of "incompetent dabblers," the inference being that only academically trained musicians should have the effrontery to submit their compositions.

Some of the most popular hymns in the church hymn book have been written by inspired amateurs.

In literature the laurels certainly do not belong to the experts. If this were so, Charles Dickens would be less popular than Bulwer Lytton, who was a noted stylist, a master of English. We should also have to agree with the critics that Lord Bacon could have written King Lear or Macbeth, because Shakespeare did not receive the academic training to be able to write such masterpieces as he wrote.

We had one organist at the Cathedral who would not endure the music of Stainer; yet Stainer's music is popular throughout the world.

As regard his criticism of the C.B.C. in its desire to encourage contemporary music, this is a very worthy thing to do. After many refusals to even look into the wonderful pages of Charlotte Bronte's "Jane Eyre," there was one publisher who took a chance, and this book became a world classic . . .

DISABILITY PENSIONS

Sir,—Reference your editorial titled, "A New Outlook Is Needed," which dealt with war veterans' pensions.

Competent journalists have indicated that Canada provides about $2,300 annually per inmate for the care of her penitentiary population.

Pensions for 100 per cent disability war pensions should at least be comparable.

COSTLY SEARCHES

Sir,—Your editorial under "Public Money Wasted" is very timely. It has always been a remarkable thing that we spend money looking for any foolish person who does not know enough to stay safe at home, but women and children can be suffering from lack of food and shelter and nobody cares; at least no money for their relief is available.

B.C. ELECTIONS ACT

Sir,—With reference to the letter of E. Seaton, of 114 Helmcken Road, in your issue of Oct. 12, I wish to add the support of many other voters in this district who are compelled to vote in [illegible] district.

Like Mr. Seaton, we have no interest in Saanich, and do not wish to have any, yet we have to vote there or not at all.

E. S. BAYLIS.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

IT is not true than an ostrich buries its head in the desert in the fond belief it can't be seen, although for two thousand years we have all been swallowing this myth.

Sometimes the poor bird is thirsty and is merely looking for water.

But the ostrich has become the symbol of folly for mankind. When Roosevelt was persuading America to become interested in the Hitler war he remarked: "America cannot be an ostrich with its head in the sand."

This was a slight inversion, for the human application of the ostrich myth has to do not so much with hiding as with pretending. When we compare some individual with the largest of all living birds we usually mean he doesn't see what is at the end of his nose, or what we think is hovering that close.

And invariably because he just won't see.

* * *

It is a human trait to pretend that what you don't like does not exist.

Once there was a New York editor who had his own ideas about Manhattan and he preferred not to have them disturbed. A reporter wrote a story and mentioned a hat shop on 42nd Street. The editor insisted there was no hat shop on this street. The reporter knew there was but he went out to make sure and counted 13 in one block!

That made no difference. A colleague told him: "Of course there are hat shops on 42nd Street, but the editor doesn't feel hat shops belong on that street, and there's nothing you or I can do to change his mind."

Now, the chances are both you and I are vulnerable to the same sort of funny notion, maybe not about hat shops but about something else. Some people, for instance, deplore the postwar changes in Victoria and carry on as though these had never occurred.

Some persons, having an unwelcome relative, coming to visit, pretend up to the last day he isn't coming, perhaps hoping in the interval he'll fall and break his neck. It's only when the hated guest arrives they pluck their heads out of the sand and face reality.

Most people, it is probably true to say, don't like unpleasant things, and it's fatally easy to ignore them with the wishful thought that somehow they'll disappear just by pretending they are not real.

Hitler was really emulating the ostrich when he refused to look behind the faces of the decadent English, and so missed the virility that might have warned him.

* * *

Another angle of the ostrich theory is that subordinates are apt to hide bad news from the superiors if they think their bosses don't want to hear unpleasant truths. Time the great dispenser, they hope, will make it unnecessary to upset his opinions.

In Hitler's case time caught up with him, but even now there are folks who stick their heads in the sand when they think about Moscow.

They pretend, in some cases, because they hate to think of what might happen, a laudable aversion but one not of much practical use.

It's always easier, of course, to advocate facing up to reality than it is to stand square with a "come one come all" look in your eye. The "Do It Now" notice you see behind some executive desks is not always to remind a forgetful memory; more often it's a hint not to shrink from the distasteful.

The ostrich has another habit which has helped to defame its reputation. When it rests itself it sits down on folded wings, and its neck and head are stretched out close to the ground. This makes it difficult to identify from a distance, hence the belief the bird thinks it can't be spotted in this posture.

Egypt and the Five-Power Defense Plan

By W. N. EWER

LONDON.—The Egyptian rejection of the proposal that Egypt should join Britain, France, the U.S.A. and Turkey in a five-power Middle East defense organization seems to me to be partly due to misunderstanding and misapprehension of the purpose of the proposal.

The Egyptian government appears to have regarded it as simply another British plan to persuade Egypt to consent to the retention of British troops in the Suez Canal Zone. This they thought to be the main purpose; the rest to be only a sort of camouflage in which somehow the U.K. government had persuaded the American, French and Turkish governments to take part.

Now that is in fact not only untrue, but it is the exact converse of the truth. The U.K. government has not the least desire to keep its troops in the Canal Zone, either just for the sake of keeping them there or for any hidden and sinister "imperialist" motives. To maintain them there is expensive. They could be very usefully employed elsewhere. And there is no "imperialist" purpose which their presence there could possibly serve.

* * *

So, far from the plan for a Middle East security system being in any way a pretext for the retention of British troops in the Canal Zone, their retention there is required precisely because they, and their well equipped bases, are for the time being essential for the effective construction of such a system.

The need for a Middle East system of collective security hardly needs stressing. Apart from the fact that it is geographically an obvious danger zone, Mr. Molotov is on record. He asked Ribbentrop, in 1940, to recognize that "the centre of territorial aspirations of the Soviet Union is south of Baku and Batum in the general direction of the Persian Gulf" and that Russia should have "a base for land and sea forces within range of the Bosporus and the Dardanelles". In addition to which, Soviet propaganda has laid claim to the Turkish provinces of Kars and Ardahan and to a large area along the Black Sea coast. A region in which a great power has avowed but still unsatisfied territorial aspirations is necessarily a danger zone.

From that, it follows logically that the defenses of such a zone need to be internationally organized, not only by a system of mutual guarantees but by a system of military preparedness in which powers able in case of need to provide major forces and in the preparatory stage to provide "military aid" must take part.

That is the genesis of the proposal for an allied Middle East command. It is a plan for establishing "stability in depth" as the basis for the defense, in the first place, of Greece, Turkey and Iran. And some such plan would have been none the less produced if there had not been a single British soldier in the Canal Zone.

But it would in that case have been far more difficult to establish rapidly and efficiently. One of the essentials of any such organization is the maintenance of adequate bases suitably sited. Another is the presence at the base of an efficient and well-trained military and air force which could in a sudden emergency operate at once while reinforcements are on the way. The British Force and the British bases in the Canal Zone provide just such a necessary nucleus. Its withdrawal would leave a dangerous vacuum which Egypt by herself is at present quite unable to fill efficiently.

The maintenance and protection of these bases is thus a keystone in any effective Middle East defense system. No other site is so suitable. And to abandon these and build substitutes elsewhere would require a very long time and heavy expenditure—which would involve the diversion of money and man power from other important tasks.

* * *

There should, one would have thought, have been no difficulty in reconciling the requirements of the Middle East defense system with the natural Egyptian desire to end the last traces of the old British occupation, to get rid of any specific and particular relationship between Egypt and Britain which can recall the former protectorate, to secure abrogation of the 1936 treaty, and to secure the assistance necessary for the building of her own military strength to the point at which, in the words of the treaty, "the Egyptian army is in a position to ensure by its own resources" the defense of the canal.

The one provided the opportunity for the other. Egypt, had she accepted the invitation to become an equal partner with Britain, the U.S.A., France and Turkey in an allied Middle East command, would have secured all these objectives and could at the same time have played a leading role among the Near Eastern states in the creation of a security system of the greatest value to her and to her fellow Arab states.

The opportunity has, at any rate for the moment, been thrown away in a frenetic mood of nationalism, drawing its inspiration from the past, paying no heed to the present. It was symptomatic that the Egyptian chamber voted enthusiastically for the rejection of the invitation before the deputies had had any opportunity to study the proposals or ever to know their exact nature.

That is more than unfortunate. But it certainly will not deflect the four powers from their purpose of creating a Middle East allied command, with or without Egyptian co-operation. And it will not bring about, but may rather further delay, that British evacuation of the Canal Zone which both Britain and Egypt desire.

Cracking Down on Tass

(From The Edmonton Journal)

THE action of the British government in closing down the powerful radio receiving station operated by the Soviet news agency, Tass, in London, is another sign of the growing suspicion with which this agency is regarded in the free world.

The station, known as the "Soviet Monitor" was used to pick up news broadcasts from Russia and the satellite states, which were then distributed to British and other newspapers and news agencies. It was thus an important link in the Soviet system for feeding news from behind the iron curtain—well mixed with propaganda—to the western world. This British action in stopping up a news source is the more unusual because Tass claims diplomatic immunity, as part of the Soviet government, and its receiving station might be considered diplomatic property also—almost like the traditional embassy letter pouch. The British would hardly have touched it without serious consideration.

The official reason given in Whitehall is that the station was set up in 1941 as a special wartime facility, and that there is no purpose in allowing it to continue in time of peace—especially since Russia does not allow Britain any similar privileges in Moscow. One cannot help wondering, however, whether more than this may not be involved. Perhaps the Monitor was receiving other things than news broadcasts — confidential instructions from the Kremlin to the British and other Communist parties, for example. It would be interesting to know.

At any rate, the move reflects its growing realization that Tass, with its correspondents throughout the world, is much less a genuine news agency than a secretive and possibly dangerous arm of the Soviet government.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

THERE was a great convention in Holland last month of the entire tobacco industry of the world. Representatives from America, Europe and Asia included both governmental officials and manufacturers, as well as growers. Nothing of any importance in the way of co-operative program or policy was arrived at. But if the convention did nothing more, it informed those interested in tobacco of the enormous range of the subject. To every country in the world, it is a gold mine of taxation.

Figures have not yet been published of the actual billions that go into government treasuries from the taxation on cigarettes, pipe tobacco and snuff. But it is expected that as the result of the convention, such figures will presently be available. Tobacco literally supports many a nation.

The Turkish leaf growers, from Turkey, Greece, Asia Minor generally, were very active at the convention, in a concerted effort to try to promote their special quality of tobacco, with its aromatic and scented flavor. Until fairly recent years, Turkish tobacco ruled the roost in Europe. Russia wanted nothing much else, and throughout Asia Minor and Asia, the Turkish scented cigarette was the only one in favor. Even England consumed a large quantity.

But since the first war, and enormously increased since the last war, the American style cigarette with its slight trace of Turkish in it has changed the smoking habits of the whole world. And Turkish growers are worried.

Meanwhile, the area under cultivation to tobacco has vastly increased in recent years; now countries including Canada have come into the picture in an ever larger way. More and more people in the world are demanding tobacco, and the government cash registers in every land are ringing furiously.

Treatment of Army Officials At College Strains Relations

MILITARY ACTIVITIES

By TREVOR COLLINS

Relations between the army and navy in Victoria are severely strained to say the least.

dents in connection with the Royal visit report that senior army officials see red every time they see a blue uniform.

Chief bone of contention is the Royal visit to the Joint Services College at Royal Roads last Monday afternoon.

A cadet inspection was planned at the college and representatives of various active and reserve force units had been officially invited to attend.

The army "brass" arrived shortly after 3 p.m. to find the parade had been switched to the gymnasium because of heavy rain. Senior army officers and their wives sought shelter.

However they were denied entrance to building because their official passes said "Royal Roads excluding buildings."

They were denied entrance to any buildings by an impressive array of naval guards who were polite but firm in their intention to keep guests outside in the pouring rain.

Drenched to the skin the small group sought shelter in the porchway to the castle, the only available cover left.

VISITS "E" COMPANY

PARADE NOVEMBER 11

First public parade of the newly-formed A.C. & W. Squadron of the R.C.A.F. will be held Remembrance Day, Nov. 11. Sqdn. Ldr. P. D. P. Holmes, commanding officer, announced yes.

He said the unit is progressing favorably. Most of the members of the unit now have uniforms and should be ready for their first public appearance by Armistice Day.

Training in the new quarters in the Begg Building is well organized and equipment is being set up. Plans are now under way to renovate the structure, according to the commanding officer.

Support unit officer F.O. Murry Einarson is being assisted by F.O. Robert Walker, who recently arrived from Vancouver.

* * *

Training of women for the reserve No. 8 A.A.O.R. has been suspended pending the arrival of uniforms.

The women started training on a voluntary basis at the armory about three months ago with the understanding they would receive uniforms about Sept. 1.

The uniforms didn't arrive and no authorization to include the women on the strength of the unit was received from army headquarters so training has been suspended.

Major R. V. Parrett had "no comment" to make.

SEEKS RECRUITS

Capt. Jack Jackson, chief instructor of the 75th Heavy A.A. Regiment, wants the names of prospective recruits between the ages of 14 to 17 years who wish to join the unit.

They can meet him any Wednesday night at the armory.

GOLDEN DREAM

IPSWICH, England (CP). — Herbert Cole, 81, before leaving for Australia with his family said that ever since he left "down under" 50 years ago he had dreamed of the day he would return to find a hill of gold. "My dream of the hill was so clear that I shall know the place the moment I see it," he said.

Elections, Korean War Affect Market Trading

Prices slipped lower yesterday in the New York stock market in the slowest session in two weeks.

Two factors in the cautious trading were the British election and the Korean war. Traders awaited developments.

The A.P. average of 60 stocks lost 50 cents at $97.00 with industrials off 50 cents, railroads 70 [illegible]

Volume at 1,360,000 shares was the lowest since Oct. 10.

In Toronto, stock market prices eased steadily toward the session's close. Volume was about 2,672,000 shares.

Western oils weakened steadily.

At Montreal, stock prices were narrowly mixed towards the close on the Stock Exchange and Curb Market, after being slightly firmer at the opening.

Advances and declines were about evenly balanced. Changes were mostly limited to minor fractions.

Industrials and utilities set the narrowly mixed trend.

In Winnipeg, coarse grain futures prices on the grain exchange advanced in most cases, with the exception of oats.

There was light shipping demand in oats and barley. Flax showed sharp gains due to buying by export interests. Rye recovered earlier drops to close high due to American buying.

Bad harvest weather on the Prairies created some demand.

There were no reports of export loadings of Canadian wheat.

At Vancouver, trading was active with base metals easier and golds unchanged on the stock exchange.

London Market Remains Calm

LONDON, Oct. 25 (Reuters).—There was a calm in all sections of the stock exchange today—election day. Buyers were quietly consolidating their positions in the belief in a Conservative party victory.

There was no continuation of yesterday's widespread buying movement but scattered support was sufficient to give firmness to most groups. Industrials closed steady to firm after early uncertainty while British government funds remained aloof at the previous closing levels.

Oil share prices were featured by Anglo-Iranian Company which gained ground sharply to 3⅝.

In the foreign section, German potash loans eased but Japanese were better.

Among mining coppers firmed, and gold shares were selectively better.

MONTREAL, Oct. 25 (CP).—The American dollar today closed at $ 15/16 per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, down ⅛ from Wednesday's close. That is, it took $1.04 15/16 Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.93 13/16, down ⅛ from Wednesday.

Redwater Yield 55 Per Cent Of Alberta Oil

EDMONTON, Oct. 25 (CP).—Figures released by the Alberta Petroleum and Natural Gas Conservation Board show that the Redwater field northeast of Edmonton is producing 55 per cent of the province's oil.

The Redwater Devonian reef was the largest single oilfield discovered anywhere in the world in 1948 and it is the largest yet found in Canada.

The board figures show that the Leduc-Woodbend field, discovery of which set off the Alberta oil boom in 1947, is producing 27 per cent of the province's oil.

The Turner Valley, the aging limestone anticline field which became Canada's first major oil field 35 years ago, now is down to only 5¼ per cent of Alberta production.

Thirty-four other Alberta fields, including a number of new ones believed ready for rapid expansion, account for 12¾ per cent of the total output.

In August, the last month for which figures are available, Alberta wells produced 5,187,803 barrels of crude oil and natural gasoline, a daily average of 167,348 barrels.

Press Holiday In Laurentians

MONTREAL, Oct. 25 (CP).—Royal tour officials have said newspapers and other information services may declare a "press holiday" Nov. 2-5 while Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh visit the Laurentian Mountains north of here.

This indicated that the press might not cover the vacation, relying on releases from tour officials.

Mining Notes

American Y. K's initial drill at Great Slave Lake gave high zinc values with lead, copper and silver across six feet.

Mill construction at Atlin-Ruffner (B.C.) is being considered for next year.

High zinc values are reported from Bluebird (B.C.).

A meeting will be held November 2 to consider a merger of Bonetal and Braulan Reef.

Carnegie (B.C.) has a tough job rehabilitating Silversmith-Slocan properties. When completed, access to ore will be a great asset.

Record earnings are reported by Chromium M. & S.

Ore shipments from Emerald Glacier (B.C.) are regular at 50 tons daily to Kenville mill, near Nelson, leased with an option of purchase.

The old Amity Copper property, N.E. Ontario, owned by Marge Copper Gold, has been optioned by Golden Arrow. Price 2½ cents per pound of copper produced.

Hoyle Mining-Ventures controlled, will diamond drill nickel-copper-gold prospect. 135 claims located in Matachewan area.

The 150-ton Rossland mill being removed to Hamil (B.C.) may be in production early 1952.

Profits will be lower this year at Lake Shore.

Opemiska Copper, Hoyle Mining-Ventures controlled, may reopen its highly promising Chibougamou copper-gold property. Ore reserves 283,000 tons.

Privateer Base Metals (B.C.) formed to develop Star Group, Ainsworth, 1,000,000 shares to Privateer Gold for mill, and shares plus $25,000 to H. Norcross of Nelson.

Silver-Miller's LaRose property is developing with increasing cobalt-silver ore potentials. Ore may be treated at United Cobalt's new custom mill.

Huge Grain Crop Waiting for Spring

EDMONTON, Oct. 25 (CP).—Millions of bushels of grain—the difference between the west's greatest crop and an ordinary one—are buried under heavy snow on the prairies this fall.

It is questionable whether any appreciable amount of this grain, let alone all of it, will be harvested before next spring. Normally, all of the prairie crop would be off the fields by now.

But this is the picture, as reported by the Canadian railways in their last crop report:

Alberta has harvested only 36 per cent of its wheat, Saskatchewan 63 per cent and Manitoba 83 per cent.

The situation is worst in Alberta, where agricultural experts call this harvest season the worst in memory.

"Chances are very remote that we will ever get any more of the crop off this year," said Arthur M. Wilson, Alberta's field crops commissioner.

LUCK LACKING

"We had all the prospects of a bumper crop, but not enough luck to finish it off. The situation now confronting Alberta farmers underlines the old saying that you don't count your chickens until they're hatched."

Almost all of Alberta's grain still in the fields is stooked, cut and piled with heads up in tied sheaves, or in swath, cut and left lying on the ground.

A few farmers still are harvesting on snow-covered fields. But this is mostly standing grain, of which there is little left in the province. Agriculture department officials said there is about 30 per cent ice in this grain, slowing operations.

The general snowfall, much earlier than usual, arrived about mid-October and has left one to 18 inches on the ground in Alberta, Saskatchewan and about one inch or less in Manitoba.

SLIM CHANCE

"It looks like the snow is here to stay," said the weather office in Edmonton. "But we may be wrong. At the moment there are signs of a gradual moderation in temperatures with no more snow in prospect for the next few days."

Mr. Wilson said it will take all of two weeks of warm, dry weather to melt the snow and dry the grain and ground before general harvesting can be resumed. He was skeptical whether the weather would give farmers this much grace at this time of year.

Prairie farmers thus are threatened with a repetition of the 1950 ugly year, when much of the grain was left in the fields and not harvested until last spring. An estimated 40,000,000 bushels of wheat was carried over, with a resulting loss in quality and yield.

BONDS QUIET

MONTREAL, Oct. 25 (CP)—Trading continued quiet with prices mainly unchanged today on the Montreal bond market. C.P.R. convertibles, in the corporate market, were again active and strong.

Fire Policy Purchases High in Insurance Totals

Fire insurance policies were approximately one-third of the business of Dominion licensed insurance companies during 1950, according to All Canada Insurance Federation.

Total premiums from policies written were valued at $115,710,-978, compared with the total premium value of $324,125,602. The total included about $20,000,000 worth of business written by Canadian companies outside Canada.

Automobile premiums written during the year were valued at $92,582,847, while other types of insurance slumped in premium value to $36,362,063 for combined coverage on residences, stores and other buildings, $13,478,484 for personal property, and ranging from about $8,000,000 to $1,750,000 for premiums of other insurance types.

Over the past 25 years, fire rates have dropped to about half their former rate due to a much better fire record. Automobile rates have shown a tendency to rise steadily as the number of accidents and the individual costs of accidents increase, the federation reported.

Despite paying claims totaling upwards of $150,000,000 in a normal year, the report added, only a small fraction of one per cent of claims go to the courts.

Plan Strategy Against Pursuing Shores

Victoria United Risks Soccer Lead In Saturday's Tussle With North Shore

Victoria United is all set for its toughest test of the season tomorrow.

The Coast Soccer League leaders, undefeated in five starts, went through a stiff workout at Royal Athletic Park last night in preparation for their important match with North Shore at Royal Athletic Park. Officials and players were confident they could meet the test.

The Reds have won three straight since their opening game setback at the hands of United and are in second place, two points behind the leaders. A win tomorrow would give them a share of first place.

Manager Tommy Restell announced three line-up changes after last night's workout. John Pickburn, who suffered a knee injury against St. Andrews last Saturday, will be replaced at right-half by Red McMillan. Jack Robbins returns to left half, replacing Bob Allen, and Don McGee takes over at inside left for Stan Bob.

However, Pickburn, Bob and Allen as well as Tommy Druce, will be available for service if changes are necessary.

MAY SIGN

Roy Whiston, former Irish professional, worked out with the club last night and there was added hope for United supporters in the announcement by president George Eade that there is a good chance that Whiston will sign a United form.

Whiston returned to Vancouver last night after assuring Eade that he will play for United if he decides to return to active soccer action. He has an offer from New Westminster Royals but, apparently, has shown a preference for Victoria.

Although not in condition, he gave the impression during the practice session that he is as good as his past record would tend to indicate. He is a right-winger.

United line-up follows:

Odds Getting Nearly Even On Rocky to Take Louis

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP).—New England support for rugged Rocky Marciano, unbeaten Brockton, Mass., slugger, today shaved the odds close to even money for his big 10-round test against Joe Louis tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden.

Walk one side of the street and you hear it's 6 to 5 and take your pick. On the other side, Louis remains a 7 to 5 favorite. By ringtime, the 37-year-old Brown Bomber may go to 8 to 5.

Coast-to-coast radio and television will beam the heavyweight fight to millions. Still some 15,000 are expected to pay $150,000 or more to see it in the flesh.

With $185,000 from TV and radio rights, the fighters will slice up a juicy gate. Louis' 45 per cent should be about $132,000 and Marciano's 14 per cent around $44,000.

IN AT KILL

Not since Louis rocketed up the ladder from the golden gloves has a non-title heavyweight bout excited so much interest. Louis is the magic name that lights the flame. But the lure now is the chance of being in on the kill—that night when some youngster will knock the Bomber into retirement for keeps.

Up New England way they think the time has come. They say the 27-year-old Marciano with the smashing right hand wallop will put a period to the 17-year-career of Louis.

Generally speaking, the professionals of the fight mob—managers, seconds and matchmakers—like Louis. The man-in-the-street goes for the kid from Brockton.

A crowding puncher with little boxing finesse who has registered 32 straight victories, Rocky must nullify Louis' jarring left jab to survive. Ten years younger than the 37-year-old former champion, Marciano gives away 25 pounds—about 210 to 185—and nine inches in reach.

REACH COUNTS

The reach probably is more important than the pounds, for Louis' jab has been his best punch in eight comeback starts since he lost to Ezzard Charles.

Everybody who saw Louis at Pompton Lakes, N.J., Sunday and Monday came away raving about his punching power and how he had regained his old combination punches. The wallops that knocked down Holly Smith were the real thing.

The experience of 70 fights in a career dating back to 1934 goes into every Louis move.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25 (CP)—Montreal Canadiens and Chicago Black Hawks battled to a 2-2 tie tonight in a National Hockey League game before a crowd of 6,948.

After trailing through two periods, the Hawks brought the count to 2-2 at 4.41 of the third when Bill Mosienko, off assists by Doug Bentley and Pete Horeck, rapped one past goalie Gerry McNeil.

Horeck was purchased late today by Chicago from Boston to fill in for Bep Guidolin, who re- ankle as a result of a cut received in practice.

The tie moved the Hawks into sole possession of third place while Montreal advanced to within one point of league-leading Detroit.

Maurice Richard hit a short-handed Chicago club at 10.37 of the opening period to give the Canadiens an early edge. It was the 297th goal of his career and his fifth of the season. At 9.51 of the second, Paul Masnick made it 2-0 when he converted Paul Meger's pass into the net past Harry Lumley.

Canadiens were without the services of Butch Bouchard and Gerry Couture. Bouchard was left in Montreal with instructions from coach Dick Irvin to "get in shape to play." Irvin claimed the veteran defenseman was overweight. Couture was out with a leg injury.

School Runners Meet Thursday In Marathon

One of the most interesting distance races of the year is slated for Victoria High School's cinder track Thursday, Nov. 1, starting at 3 p.m.

Three teams—from Oak Bay, Victoria College and Victoria High School—will compete in a three-mile run. Contestants will start the race on the track, run approximately two and a half miles on the road and return to the oval for the final quarter of a mile.

Runners have been training steadily for the event which will serve as a tune-up for the annual Royal Roads' grind, scheduled for late in November.

Victoria College will depend on such stars as Bob Elliot and Phil Taylor, while the Fernwood Road aggregation will pin its hopes on Don Burgess, Pete Kirchner, Dick Wood, Leon Goudal, Jack Lawrence, Don Thompson and Roger Sampson.

He played 19 games with Rangers in 1947-48 season and was back in N.H.L. with Blueshirts for full seasons in 1948-49 and 1949-50. He played for Cincinnati last season.

Grapplers Set Complete Card

Wrestling promoter Nick Harris yesterday announced his complete line-up for tomorrow night's card at the Bay Street Armory.

The feature attraction will be a return match between Chief Thunderbird and Jack MacDonald; powerful Oregon logger. MacDonald defeated the Saanich grappler last week.

Dr. Gallagher will again appear in the semi-windup, this time against Gus Johnson of Sweden. Al Watkin and Tarzan Potvin will match holds in the special event.

The local opener will be between Tyke Myren and Cecil Warsnop. Action starts at 8.30 p.m.

Carnera the Wrestler Evens Boxing Score

LONDON, Oct. 25 (CP)—More than 19 years after he was outpointed by Larry Gains, former heavyweight champion Primo Carnera evened the score. But it was as a wrestler, not a boxer.

Carnera was declared the winner over Canadian-born Gains here last nigh in a world championship elimination.

Gains, now 49, once knocked out Max Schmeling in two rounds. He defeated Carnera in a boxing bout in [illegible] the ring some years ago and lives quietly in Shrewsbury.

Jim Ferguson Top Trundler, Averages 181

Jim Ferguson paces the league's 35 trundlers with a 181 average while Andy Palmer and Ken Munn follow with 179 and 178 respectively.

Nineteen players are currently averaging below 170 while seven have slipped below 150.

Bill Coates holds the season's high three-mark, a not-too-good 609, which was all he could salvage in spite of his high single of 298.

Players and averages follow:

J. Ferguson 181, A. Palmer 179, E. Munn 178, E. Hegg 176, J. Howell 174, N. Howard 174, R. Tupper 174, H. Paulding 174, W. Foster 173, J. Leetham 171, R. Wilson 171, H. Cowan 171, W. Holmes 170, R. McArthur 170, J. Cambrey 170, R. Barnes 170.

Rugby Leaders Hope to Win Fourth in Row

Crusaders will be seeking their third straight victory in the first division of the Victoria Rugby Union when they meet the young Victoria College crew at Macdonald Park tomorrow afternoon.

Winless J.B.A.A. will tangle with Oak Bay Wanderers in the other match at Windsor Park. Both games will start at 2.30.

Victoria College will strip two new players this week. Dacre Parnell, a member of last season's Vikings, will be inserted in the scrum while Jack Robertson, a former University School player will perform on the three line.

Crusaders have been weakened considerably by injuries. John Campbell and Ray Calton will miss tomorrow's game and John Shipley is a doubtful starter. However Hugh Burnett will be ready for action and will take Campbell's three-line post.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP)—A major player trade is brewing between Brooklyn and Cincinnati Reds whereby Ewell (The Whip) Blackwell may go to the Dodgers in exchange for one of their top-flight outfielders.

The Reds are reported to have asked for either Duke Snider, Carl Furillo or Andy Pafko—in that order—in return for The Whip.

Blackwell won 17 games in 1950.

Bellingham Hoop Team Headed by Gail Bishop

There was good news for the proposed Inter-City Basketball League last night in the report that Gail Bishop, former All-American who is well known to Victoria fans, will be playing coach of the Bellingham team.

Bellingham manager Jim McCartin unexpectedly gave assurances of the entry of his club at a league meeting in Vancouver Wednesday and announced that the team would be known as Bellingham Original G-Men and that Bishop would be the coach.

Bishop's acceptance of the coaching job was the reason that Bellingham decided to enter a team after previously announcing it would be unable to start.

That Bellingham will be tough to beat was evident when it was further announced that Bishop has lined up former teammates Roy Wark, Hal Aaronson and Pete Peterson and that the balance of the squad would be made up from service personnel stationed at Whidby Naval Base.

Bellingham's sudden entry left league officials amazed but happy. "It has revitalized the whole set-up," said one.

Complete plans will be announced after a meeting of delegates and officials at Vancouver tonight. The league opener has already been set for Nov. 2 with Victoria Individuals set to meet Eilers at Vancouver. Vancouver Clover Leafs and Port Alberni are the other entries in the five-team league.

Meanwhile, small differences were straightened out between Individuals and the Victoria and District Basketball Association at a meeting last night. Tom Carson, president of the V.D.B.A. and treasurer of the Inter-City League, announced that the V.D.B.A. had agreed to let Individuals have the choice of operating independently or through the V.D.B.A.

FAN FARE By Walt Ditzen

Fishing Good in Cowichan River, Saanich Inlet

Cowichan River provides the highlight of fishing news this week. Not only is trout fishing excellent but many anglers report they have hooked into, and landed, fresh cohos as far up the river as the headwaters at Cowichan Lake. This would seem to explain in part why [illegible] has been below par. The fish apparently are breezing right through the bay and up the river.

Art Christopher and Archie Hazeldine, of Vancouver, had exceptional success in the Cowichan this week, Bud Hocking reports. They beached 60 trout, some of them weighing as much as four pounds, in a three-day try. They made their catch on No. 8 Ogden Smith red and white hackle fly, fished on the bottom.

Closer to Victoria, Hall's boathouse reports fishing has been good at the Goldstream end of Saanich Inlet with grilse, blue backs and small springs abounding and being caught in encouraging numbers. Best of all, they are on the surface with anglers using not more than six ounces of weight.

B. Croft picked up nine grilse on a bucktail fly last week and boated an eight-pound spring and one grilse on Sunday using the same tackle.

Other successful fishermen included: L. J. Coulsher and L. Dirkson, two small springs and four grilse; W. Hett, 10½-pound spring and three grilse; O. Holler, a small spring; R. Hurst and son, 10 grilse; A. D. McLennon, seven grilse; D. McDonald and J. Skinner, two springs and 17 grilse; Vic Holman, two springs and two grilse; R. Girton and F. Fendly, two jacksprings and a grilse; C. Panting, one spring and a grilse; S. Linton, one spring and three grilse; G. Kennley, one spring; Fred Corie and Ernie Davies, one jackspring and 14 grilse.

Cougars, Royals Promise Faithful Top Hockey Fare

Victoria Cougars versus the New Westminster Royals.

That's the fare at Memorial Arena tonight and it needs little selling. It has been seldom, if ever, that these two clubs haven't dished up wide-open speedy play that is the acme of the hockey entertainment. It was the same in their one meeting this season—a 2-2 draw at New Westminster—and it should be no different tonight.

The Royals will present many familiar faces and some new to P.C.H.L. fans.

GUYLE FIELDER

New to the Royals but well remembered as the pesky mite who gave Eddie Mazur such a bad time in last season's playoffs is the fast little Blinky Boyce.

FOUR NEW ROYALS

The Royals have four players new to the P.C.H.L. and they have already proven their ability. There is coach Jake Forbes, a solid defenseman; Jerry Cabana, smooth, hard-working centre from the Quebec Senior Hockey League, and Robert Roberge, husky defenseman also from Quebec. And there is Guyle Fielder, the highly-rated ex-Medicine Hat junior purchased from the Chicago Black Hawks.

Fielder centred a new line, with Fashoway and Boyce on the wings, against Tacoma Wednesday and the trio came up with nine points. Fielder scored a beautiful goal, set up three others.

Also needing close surveillance is the re-united attacking threesome of Dorohoy, Ullyot and Dufault, scourge of the P.C.H.L. two seasons back. Dorohoy is leading the league in points with 10 goals and six assists and appears as if he is serious about wresting the scoring title from younger brother Eddie of the Cougars.

Royals may be weakened a bit tonight. They lost Slater for an indefinite period with leg injuries suffered Wednesday and both Dorohoy and Ullyot were injured less seriously. Both are expected to face the Cougars.

ERNIE ROCHE

Cougars will also present a new face tonight. He is Ernie Roche, hustling young defenseman who arrived unexpectedly from Montreal by air yesterday morning after starring the season in the A.H.L. with Cincinnati.

Roche, only 21, is expected to help ease coach Roger Leger's defensive worries. He was a star with Montreal junior Canadiens for five seasons and a standout when the club won the Memorial Cup in 1949-50. He turned pro with Cincinnati last season and played in 60 games with the Mohawks, picking up 13 points and 21 minutes in penalties. He will, alternate with Leon Bouchard as Leger's partner tonight.

Not at all happy with his club's performance in Seattle Wednesday, when the Ironmen snapped the 11-game undefeated streak with a 5-4 win, Leger intends to get the Cougars' best tonight.

Although he didn't mention names, Leger was displeased with the performance of several of his players. He contended that the Cougars should have won and blamed the Seattle win on lax defensive play, some of it caused by "point-hungry" forwards. He feels that no club will win many games when the opposition scores five goals and intends to see that the Royals are kept in better check than the Ironmen were Wednesday.

Except for the inclusion of Roche, and the possible insertion of Fred Hildebrand in Bob Bowness' left-wing spot, the Cougar line-up will remain unchanged.

Mount Douglas whipped Victoria High Blacks at Fernwood Road, 35-28, and Mount View swamped Victoria High Golds, 56-26.

Oak Bay chalked up its second win, beating S. J. Willis, 25-6, and Esquimalt completed the four-game card by trouncing Central Junior High, 25-14.

Cameron led Mount View to victory as he racked up 23 points, high for the league to date. Rutherford sparked the losers with 10 points.

STRONG OPPONENTS

Mount Douglas kept pace with their suburban rivals, although having trouble with a strong Victoria High squad. Thompson paced the winners with 14 points and Brice was close behind for the losers with 12.

Oak Bay, although using only the second string in the first half still had enough to beat a game but outclassed S. J. Willis entry. Corbett pushed up 10 points for the winners.

Esquimalt, led by Shergold and Bennett with 10 and 12 points respectively, had too much power for Central.

Culbertson on Bridge - - - -

(Copyright 1951, by Ely Culbertson)

The problem of selecting the best opening lead is always difficult unless the leader has such a "comfortable" holding as A-K-Q, K-Q-J, Q-J-10, etc. Difficult as the selection may be, however, it is even tougher at match-point duplicate than at rubber bridge. At the latter game, the objective is clear: to defeat the contract, but at match-points, the leader must also keep in mind the danger of overtricks.

South dealer.
East-West vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ Q 8 6
♥ Q 7
♦ K 8 7 6 2
♣ A J 4

WEST
♠ 10 4 2
♥ K 4 3
♦ 9
♣ Q 10 7 6 5 3

EAST
♠ J 5 3
♥ J 10 8 5
♦ A Q 4
♣ 9 8 2

SOUTH
♠ A K 9 7
♥ A 9 6 2
♦ J 10 5 3
♣ K

Most North-South pairs reached the correct contract of three no-trump and made it with ease; in fact, quite a few pairs scored one or more overtricks. In six cases, however, North-South elected to play at four spades. In five of these cases West opened the singleton diamond, got a third-round ruff, and eventually cashed in the heart king to defeat the contract.

One West, however, playing against a four-spade contract, did for defeat the contract, and the question is whether he was unwise or merely unfortunate. The bidding at his table went:

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	2♦	Pass
3♦	Pass	3♠	Pass
4♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

This West, having listened attentively to the diamond response by North and the diamond raised by South, could not bring himself to lead the singleton; it seemed all too likely that this lead would "expose" East's possible queen in the suit. Surely, West could not hope that East had both the ace and queen. So West, who had no reason to feel that four spades could be licked by any lead, opened a club—and declarer sailed home.

At rubber bridge, West could be blamed severely for not making the one lead, however desperate, that would give him a chance, but at duplicate, who can say that West's punishment was deserved?

Uncle Wiggily Story - - -

By Howard Garis

CATS UP A TREE

Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow ran away from Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow. Tied on the tail of each little puppy dog was a tin can. Oh, no! Not any funny boys had tied the tin cans to Jacki and Peetie. The puppy dogs had tied the tin cans on their own tails.

No, excuse me. That isn't exactly right. Jackie had tied a tin can on Peetie's tail and Peetie had tied the tin can on Jackie's tail. Oh! There's something else I forgot to tell you. The tin cans were empty and they made a fine binging, banging, clattering noise when the puppy dogs ran fast with the cans bouncing after them.

The reason the puppy dogs had tin cans on their tails was so that they might have a tin can race. First they had a barking race. Jackie tried to bark louder than Peetie and Peetie tried to bark louder than his brother.

But they made so much noise near Uncle Wiggily's bungalow that the rabbit gentleman stuck his pink nose at them and kindly asked them to run away and bark out in the woods and fields.

"Aw, a puppy dog can't do anything to have fun," barked Jackie.

"That's right," agreed Peetie. "But Uncle Wiggily says he is writing a story and our barking bothers him."

"Maybe it does," said Jackie. "Let's go away. But I know how we can have some other fun."

"How?" asked Peetie.

"We'll have a tin can race," barked Jackie.

So that's how the puppy dogs tied cans on each other's tail for a race. But they made so much clanging, banging, clattering noises around Uncle Wiggily's bungalow that the rabbit gentleman again asked them to go away.

"Aw, whizz whazz!" barked Peetie. "A puppy dog can't have any fun around here at all!"

"It doesn't seem so," answered Jackie. "But I s'pose Uncle Wiggily must have peace and quiet when he is writing his stories."

"Yes, I guess so," agreed Peetie. "But what can we do to have fun?"

Then Jackie whispered something in Peetie's ear. I promised to tell you what Jackie whispered and now it is nearly time for that.

"Oh, whim Wham!" exclaimed Peetie with a jolly little bark after Jackie had finished whispering. "That sure will be fun! but first we had better take these tin cans off our tails."

"Why should we do that?" asked Jackie.

"Because they make so much noise that we might scare them and then would run away before we could chase them," said Peetie.

"That's right," answered Jackie. "I'll take the tin can off your tail and you can take the tin can off my tail."

"Sure!" barked Peetie. "Then we won't scare them."

The tin cans were soon off the tails of the puppy dogs and Peetie was going to toss his can into the bushes when Jackie barked:

"Save it, Peetie. I know another trick we can play with the tin cans after we go chase them."

"What trick, Jackie?"

"Oh, I'll tell you after a while. Now we'll hide our cans and the pieces of string."

When this had been done Jackie and Peetie ran along a path in the woods until they reached the house where Jole, Tommie and Kittie Kat lived. Mrs. Kat was in the front yard raking leaves.

"Where are the pussy cats?" asked Jackie.

"They are over in the woods playing," mewed Mrs. Kat. "Did you want them?"

"Yes'm, if you please," Jackie barked.

"Why do you want them?" Mrs. Kat mewed.

"We are going to chase them up a tree," answered Peetie as he ran with his brother to the woods where Jole, Tommie and Kittie Kat were playing tag.

I wonder if Jackie and Peetie are going to chase the pussy cats up a tree? We shall find out about that tomorrow if the spoon will put some sugar in the sour milk to make it sweet for the goldfish.

BIG LOBSTER REVENUE

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Although the catch was lower than previous years, Newfoundland shipped 631,120 pounds of lobster to the United States last season, according to reports at a meeting of several lobster fishermen's societies. In the last 10 years a total of 8,230,871 pounds of live lobsters were shipped.

Citizens Favor Pensions, Differ Over Fund Raising

Victorians are wholeheartedly in favor of the old age security program which insures everyone

Opinion is divided, however, over method used by the government to raise the necessary funds to support the scheme.

Maintenance man Earle C. Wintemute, Vancouver Street, said he lower incomes were hit again.

"Anyone earning under about $2,900 a year is already paying all he can," said Wintemute. "I believe in the pension scheme, but feel those earning lower incomes should be exempted from the higher tax."

Secretary of the Victoria Labor Council Percy Rayment had two objections.

He objected to the $60 maximum income tax payment set up by the government.

"This is clearly ignoring the ability to pay," he said.

Finance Minister Abbott said that "the sales tax approaches the ideal levy for financing the scheme." Mr. Rayment believed this to be unfair because by the time goods reached the consumer several profits were added that the government did not receive.

Peter Hartnell, apartment building owner, thought the tax discriminatory. "The way it is organized, the poor are being dinged the same amount as the corporations."

Dr. J. A. Ewing, president of Victoria College, thought the scheme "excellent and fair in every way."

"A tremendous number of people pay no income tax, but they will still contribute through the sales tax. A very fine thing."

WON'T HURT

Mrs. David Whitehead, Iris Lane said: "I suppose the 2 per cent won't hurt too much and we certainly need the scheme. Still, I think the middle classes are already paying a great deal and if the price of food goes up much more we'll have no income over left to tax."

A. G. Rabbit, Palmer Street, salesman, said he realized the money had to come from somewhere. "Nothing in life is free."

Hubert Cumberbirch, Crook Street, retired, thought the principle of the tax "most equitable." He was of the opinion that payments to pensioners would see more money circulating.

A. H. Hawthornthwaite, Duplin Street, a gas worker with two children thought the tax was "all right." He was in favor of the scheme and believes the tax to be fair.

John Billman, Shakespeare Street, thought the tax reasonable and of benefit to everyone.

"It is a form of insurance," he said.

W. Penhallurick, Balmoral Road, a milkman, said he didn't think the tax would hurt too

Union Official Seeks to Settle Beer Walkout

Edward Sims, international representative of the striking Brewery Workers' Union, is in Victoria today on business concerning the strike and a possible settlement.

As yet there has been no definite announcement concerning resumption of negotiations between the disputing parties.

The union said, however, that the labor relations board had conferred with the C.C.L. Brewery Union and the managements of four companies concerned.

Mr. Sims is acting as liaison officer between the union and the companies, and has been active in Vancouver.

COUNCIL SUPPORT

Victoria Labor Council (C.C.L.) will lend all possible support, council president Robert Smeal said.

The Brewery Workers' Union is keeping a close watch on possible deliveries of Interior beer supplies to Coast outlets, according to brewery workers' local union spokesman Henry Nowotniak.

There was no immediate indication that such beer supplies would be shipped to the Coast.

Gen. Pearkes was appointed this week a parliamentary adviser to the Canadian delegation attending the assembly.

It is expected the General and his wife will be in Europe until Christmas.

Club Re-elects Wallace

H. A. Wallace was re-elected as commodore of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club at the club's annual meeting last night.

Other officers elected were: Major Gen. G. R. Stein, vice-commodore; Major J. E. Mathews, rear commodore; W. C. Caldwell, fleet captain; H. W. Miller, staff captain; Archdeacon A. E. de L. Nunns, fleet chaplain; Dr. R. J. Wride, fleet surgeon; and T. L. Thacker, measurer.

Elected to the management committee were R. B. James, R. H. Smith, Albin Nelson, F. W. Francis, H. W. Gladwell, Humphrey Golby, Percy Fearn, and E. B. Roberts.

Dr. Thomas Mercer was named as an honorary life member of the club.

Pension Board May Stay Same

Health and Welfare Minister Turnbull indicated last night in the Legislature the government may use the existing two-man Old Age Pension Board to administer new pension regulations.

The minister told Opposition Leader Harold Winch it likely would not be necessary to add personnel to the existing board. Staff employed by the board might have to be increased, he said.

The present board has three members, as has the board called for under new legislation. One of the members died recently and has not been replaced.

The oldest existing maps are believed to be Babylonian tablets made in clay about 2300 B.C.

Disappointed Horses Unridden by Royal Couple

QUALICUM BEACH, Oct. 25.—If it is possible for horses to feel disappointment, the three most disappointed horses on Vancouver Island are Mollie's Choice, Honey and Flicka.

The three horses were groomed, saddled, shod and ready for the Princess and Prince to ride, but the Royal pair went to Port Alberni instead.

Eagle Crest. The Princess and Prince may yet go for an early morning canter before leaving Eagle Crest for Nanaimo.

Owner of the stables, Mrs. E. M. Waters and her daughter, Mrs. Mary Edmonson, received the Royal call for horses at 5 p.m. Wednesday.

The two women chased the horses, which were pastured a mile from Qualicum, after landing the Little Qualicum River, 120 feet wide. The horses had not been ridden for six weeks.

A blacksmith from Nanaimo was summoned to shoe the horses and they were curry-combed and saddled. Mollie's Choice, a black mare, was for Princess Elizabeth and Honey was for Prince Philip. They carried English saddles.

Mrs. Edmonson saddled the black gelding Flicka with her own $1,400 silver-chased western show saddle complete with lariat, just in case the Royal pair wished to try a western ride.

Archer Gets Deer While on Crutches

(AP)—Robert Ewing, 33, bagged a deer, Tuesday, the hard way—with a bow and arrow and on crutches. Undaunted by a pair of ailing ankles, Ewing had a friend drive him into the forest. He flushed a 115-pound buck which ran straight for him. Ewing's single arrow pierced its neck.

Sophia Disaster Recalled on 33rd Anniversary

Thirty-three years ago today Victoria and the entire Pacific Northwest reeled with news of one of the worst marine disasters in the history of this coast.

The C.P.R.'s Princess Sophia, coming south from Skagway, ran aground on Vanderbilt Reef, Lynn Canal, on October 24, 1918. After two days and nights of constant pounding by the steamer's pilot house, in winds of almost hurricane force, the ship slipped from her rocky perch. A total of 343 persons, many of them from Victoria, lost their lives. There were no survivors.

The ship sank in deep water in a blinding snowstorm. The United States lighthouse tender Cedar, which had been standing by since the ship grounded, was forced away by the storm's fury. Only wreckage was left to show.

DETAILED ACCOUNT

The Daily Colonist of October 27, 1918, carried a detailed account of the disaster.

"When the Sophia sent out the message that she was sinking, the rescue boat (Cedar) made full speed to the spot, but was unable to locate the stricken ship. She was forced to wait until the following morning, and when she arrived at Vanderbilt Reef the mast tips were the only thing visible of the Sophia."

The next issue of The Daily Colonist carried grim reports of bodies from the lost ship being strewn along the shores of Lynn Canal and various islands in the area.

"No sign of life, or hope for any survivors," flashed the Cedar, after a thorough search of the area, along with about 30 other vessels.

Capt. F. L. Locke, commanding officer of the ship, had been with the C.P.R. for 27 years.

Early reports from the scene of the wreck claimed the captain had turned down offers of smaller craft to take passengers from the grounded Sophia. He thought they would be safer aboard the steamer than in smaller vessels in such rough seas.
